Brown recommends flower-watching hikes in the lower elevations in the south part of the park, like the Bajada Nature Trail. Two other nearby delights will include wildflower-rich Shell Creek Road, near Santa Margarita, where orange poppies and blue-purple sky lupine blanket the roadside; and San Luis Obispo’s Montaña de Oro State Park, which blooms with masses of California poppies, sticky monkey flowers, wild radish, and mustard, all along its easy-access Bluff Trail. Hike the Chumash Trail uphill from Pacific Coast Highway: in the lower stretches, you’ll see poppies, lupine, and mariposa lilies, while up higher you’ll find the more exotic chocolate lily and blue globe gilia. Sierra Foothills. Peak season: mid-March through late April.
