BIBLIOGRAPHY

JOURNALS

7. Journal of Indian Education: NCERT

9. Indian Educational Abstracts, NCERT

10. Indian Educational Review: NCERT

11. New Frontiers in Education.

ELECTRONIC REFERENCES:

- Educational Resources and Information Centre (http:\www.eric.gov) and www.lib.umi.com\dissertations\.
- Shodhganga: (http://shodhganga.inflibnet.ac.in)
- http:\alumni.media.mit.edu\wandyd\mindset\design\clersch.html: cooperative learning classroom project.
- Education. Umn.edu\pubs. Research works html.
- www.learnline.nw.de\anagabote\greenline\learn.html.
- http:\en.wikiedia.org\wiki\research
- http:\education.com
When we ask teachers of primary schools about their aspirations for their pupils' English language abilities, 'speaking English with confidence' is almost always at the top of their wish list. They want their pupils to read well, have a wide vocabulary and a firm understanding of English grammar, but mostly they want to hear them speak and speak with confidence and enjoyment. I think the next will be by stories, stories provide children with a context for speaking English. This is especially valuable if they aren't able to experience an immersive language-learning environment. We acknowledge the different and vast variety of teaching realities in primary schools, as well as a great variety of weak points that these teachers have to deal with every day.